Newsletter November–December 2011

Dear Friends,
Welcome to the Summer Edition of my Newsletter.

Here we are once again approaching the end of another year, and what an incredible time of transformation it has been, and still is!

This Friday brings a very interesting line up of numbers with 11/11/11. Whatever interpretation we choose to place on this, there's no denying the mystical energy that many of us feel around such a combination. Historically in Australia its Remembrance Day, when we pay tribute to those who lost their lives in different wars, and a minute's silence is observed at 11am. For those of us able to be still at that time, the 11am moment of 11/11/11 offers us a space to really tune in to our Soul Selves and the energies all around us, to breathe deeply into our very core, and to listen within. If we are able to sustain the moment beyond a minute, a greater unfolding of revelations will be possible as we create space for the stillness, the silence, to enter. I will be entering this still space at that time, and invite you to join me wherever you are, to go within, breathe, allow and listen. By creating more spaces like this in our lives, we generate more personal and collective 'sanctuaries of silence' with greater possibilities for the deepest parts of us to be heard, and the conscious breath of love to be radiated out into the world.

As many of you know, I've continued throughout the year to work intensively with Archangel Raphael, and the second series of his Masterclasses has now been 'transformed' into a new book: 'Mosaic of the Soul'. This group of teachings from Raphael delves deeply into ways we can restore a natural and living relationship with our own Soul and flows on from the first book 'Wings of the Heart'. I'm very excited for this New Consciousness writing to be going out into the world, and I'll be having a Book Launch at the Sophia Centre on Sunday November 20th at 2pm. More details later on in the Newsletter. I'd love you to come along and help celebrate this new arrival!

'Dreamwalker Death Transitions' Training Course

DreamWalking is an ancient spiritual process that has its roots in many indigenous traditions as a way of honouring Death as a sacred journey for the individual, and ultimately the family and community as a whole.

In this 3-day school, you will learn how to offer steady, spiritual companionship to the one in transition from their physical body to the realms beyond the human experience, safely supporting them through the release from their physical body. Detailed information will be given about what happens before, during and after the Death transition, bringing new understandings of Life as well as Death.

This amazing material is appropriate for anyone interested in learning more about the Death transition process, or for those desiring to offer Service back to their community as a certified Dream Walker Death Transition Guide.
